Suffice it to say that he could take the iron-clad oath. We might have said that he preferred that oath to the ordinary one, or he need not have taken it. He was an out-and-out Union man during the war. Therefore, in appointing his committees and in selecting chairmen trom them he was not compelled to face the charge that their constitution was the work of the rebel brigadiers. The North was surely entitled to the next highest and most important place-namely, the chairmanship of the Committee on Ways and Means and the leadership of the House. Mr. Carse did not feel free to bring re proach upon the Democratic cause or to slight the southern Democrats. He is the first "rebel" that has filled the Speaker's chair since the war between the States ended. We have heard, and we suppose it is true, that while the contest between him and Mills was going on he expressed him and MILLS was going on the expension his intention of giving the North full representation on the committees, and to his particular friends gave it as his opinion that it would be wise to place northern men at the haad of the Committee on Ways and Means, the Committee on Appropriations, &c., thereby heading off the bry that a "rebel brigadier" was, as chairman of the first-named committee, en-deavoring to "destroy northern indus-

"MILLS," and we will say that Mr. Carsp will attack the tariff bill in detail and not Mr. MILLS. He will countenance no step backward. Instead of reporting a gen-eral bill which would never pass the Senate and yet be a target for the Republicans in the next presidential campaign and place the Democrats on the defensive, his nittee will probably report one compact bill or various separate bills enlarging the free list, placing tin-plate, salt, wool, cotton-ties, lumber, &c., on that list. (But pray do not assume that we are Mr. CRIBE's kesman in this matter.)

The Advance says that BYNUM and BRECK-NRIDGE ought not to have been turned off the Committee on Ways; and Means. They were left off, not turned off. We repeat that our Lynchburg contemporary simply says in effect that Mr. Cause's judgment of men is not good. We admire BYNUM and like Barckingings, but we expect their successors on the committee to prove themselves equal to those two gentlemen As to Mr. Springer's connection with the

We are sorry that the Advanc finds it in its heart to predict that Mr. Springer will be "a fail-ure" as chairman of the Committee on Ways and Means. We hope for better things; and we confidently expect our Lynchburg contemporary to be agreeably disappointed in Mr. Sparages, and to become, ere long, one of Speaker Crisp's warmest admirers. We feel a high respect for the Advance, and can assure it that are only two ways to secure the needed we live to learn and would not be ashamed to learn from the Advance, or to ac-knowledge that we had thus learned.

Since writing the foregoing we have ome across a report of an interview of a New York World reporter with Mr. Colourit, of Georgia. From that report we borrow as follows:

"I see nothing to complain of in the appointnts Mr. Crisp has made. He is charged with nmitting a grave error and threatening the committing a grave error and threatening the harmony of the Democratic party in the selections he has made of chairmen of various committees. Especially is this true of his selection of the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. It is said that courtesy required that he should have appointed Mr. Mills chairman because he was chairman of that committee in the Fiftieth Congress. If such confidence is the Pittleth Congress. Piftieth Congress. If such courteey was neces-ary the same was due every other chairman of committee in the Fiftieth Congress. If he had been controlled by this idea and appointed the committees as suggested, he would have im-perilled the success of the Democratic party. But we would seen have found this to a flattering delusion had he appointed the mairmen of these committees from considera-ons urged by those who are censuring him, at the Democratic canvassers in the northern of western States in 1892 consider how they ould have met the charges on the stump that a Speaker of a Democratic Congress was a bel and that the chairman of every important unnittee was a rebel, and that the day had ee was a rebel, and that the day had when the South was again in the saddle, ad and spurred, controlling the destinies of ternment which it had sought to overturn."

One Sabbath for Jew and Gentile. Rabbi Samuel Sale, of Shaarre Emeth Bynagogue, St. Louis, has recently delivered a series of sernions in favor of Hebrews abandoning Sabbath worship on Sasurday and holding synagogue services on Sunday, thus bringing about a uniformity in the Christian and Hebrew day what inclined to favor the idea, but without prejudice to those who from earnest convictions of duty find it impossible to give up their present Sabbath. He says that "as long as there are people who conscientionaly want to observe the old Sabbath, they ought not to be deprived of the opportunity to do so. We have Sabbath services and lecture at Har Sinai on Saturday, and also lecture and service on Sunday."

Annexation and Streets. The City Council committee charged with the duty of considering the annexation of that suburb of Richmond known as Lee district, in the county of Henrico yesterday evening agreed that it was in-advisable to recommend action in that direction until we have a well-settled policy for the extension and improvement of our streets. They, however, agreed to communicate Major Doolky's bill to the Council as being in the line desirable for us to pursue.

This wift afford shippers the protection that they need, especially as the commission will undertake on their behalf all the trouble and expense of prosecuting violators of the law.

Let us frame a sound and sensible railroad bill now that we are all in a good humor and while we are satisfied with affairs in Virginia and have every reason to hope that the next great presidential election will be won by our party.

Mr. McMillin.

Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, who was on vesterday elected Speaker pro tem, of the House, is an excellent presiding officer.
He is a most skilful parliamentarian. Whoever will read the Congressional Record closely will find that he is second only to Mr. Carse in qualifications for the office of Speaker.

A House of Representatives that can boast of two men as familiar with parliamentary law as are Cause and McMillin, admission as States of the new Territories of the far Northwest, we need not say much. Mr. Springer's ability seems to us ing the law impartially, gives evidence in

Mr. McMillian will wield the gavel with a master's band and do credit to hunself and his party.

Many of our able and esteemed contemporaries are calling upon the General Assembly to "pass good road laws." Very well. Roads cannot be built without money. The State has no revenue that can be applied to this object, and there are only two ways to secure the needed funds. One is by State taxation under general laws, and the other is by county taxation under special laws. Which will you take?

It is reported to be Governor Hill's plan to baye the New York Legislature pass a bill au-thorizing the choice of presidential electors by that body on joint ballot.—Cincinnati Commercial-leading Democrat would favor such a bill. The Legislature has the right to pass such a one, but will never exercise that right.

Mr. STEWART of Nevada is of the opinion that under the act of 1837 providing for "the Dollar of the Daddies" free coinage is at this very time author ized by the law of the land. His view he set forth in a preamble and resolution offered by him in the Senate yesterday.

BARGAINS.

The real value of a bargain is determined by the style of the goods as much as the quality All old styles, no matter how fine the quality have no real value.
